

BEONTRA – Let your career take off!

With the BEONTRA Scenario Planning solutions our customers are constantly "ON TRACK" which enables them to think "BEYOND TRAFFIC". Our solutions provide ideal conditions for the simulation and evaluation of planning scenarios covering areas such as traffic, capacity, revenue and investment. With our innovative products we keep the world in motion – for over 15 years we have been dedicated to developing software solutions in a fast-paced environment, providing cutting edge technology to help our 40+ clients manage airport traffic. BEONTRA belongs to the Leidos organization which provides systems integration as well as scientific, engineering and technical services. Together our products advance customer's mission and add exceptional value to their organization.

As we continue to grow we are currently looking for a Product Manager Aviation (m/f) to add to our Product Management Team in Karlsruhe.

Key responsibilities

- Design and shape solutions for the aviation industry with tangible concepts that our development team can include in our software suite
- Analyze client requirements and translate these into value adding product features applicable to the whole industry
- Capture market requirements through customer consultation, engage with users through workshops as well as providing user guides and training concepts
- Manage product and solution roadmaps
- Support business development team as subject matter expert and create product related marketing materials
- Responsible for quality assurance

Requirements

- Degree in economics/computer science or equivalent experience in the aviation- and transport industry
- Technical knowledge an advantage
- Highly motivated, reliable as well as quality performer
- Exceptional analytical and conceptual skills
- Excellent moderation and communication skills – acting as the interface between different stakeholders and the product development team
- Excellent English and German skills
- Willingness to travel

What we offer

- Challenging projects in the aviation industry with scope for introducing your own ideas and experience
- Start-up company with flat hierarchies, motivated teams and flexible working hours
- Competitive compensation package as well as long-term prospects
- Opportunity for personal development and career growth

Become part of our vibrant, international team. If you can think outside of the box and are fun to work with then we would love to hear from you.

Come aboard and check-in with the following documents:

- Cover letter
- CV
- References
- Possible start date

Please send your application to jobs@beontra.com

BEONTRA
a Leidos company